

COURSE CANCELLATION: SAMPLING AND PRESERVATION OF WATER AND SEDIMENT SAMPLES

Dear Participant,

Since our last message, sent on July 23th, we have been negotiating with UNESCO and Cetesb to try to schedule a new date for the course “Sampling and Preservation of Water and Sediment Samples”.

However, due to the situation of the pandemic by Covid-19 in the State of São Paulo, Cetesb decided to suspend the execution of all its face-to-face courses this year. Considering the deadline of the South-South Cooperation Agreement (which is December 2020), throughout which this course would be financed, it was not possible to reschedule the course for the next year.

Negotiations are currently being held in order to extend this Agreement for another year (until December 2021). If this extension is confirmed, we will start, in January 2021, a new process for contracting the course, with the forecast to hold it in the 2nd semester of 2021, possibly in August, from 08/16/2021 to 08/20/2021.

Our team will keep you informed of these future developments.

We remain available for any questions and clarifications.

Yours truly,
